Wine of the week West Cape Howe Shiraz 2007

90/100

Tuesday 2nd December 2008

“This West Australian company has figured strongly in my reviews this year and it’s because it is delivering consistently tasty wines at remarkably low prices.

This has the sort of spicy, cool-grown shiraz aromas that lead you to expect an elegant, balanced, interesting drink that won’t assault you with alcohol, tannin and oaky astringency. And it delivers. It’s been astutely designed to drink young. The taste is soft and again spicy, with a nice balance of fruity and savoury flavours with a grape character that’s at once cool-grown-zesty and properly ripe. It’s young but it’s more than a simplistic fruit-bomb. “

Now to five years

Food: Vitello tonnato, lamb navarin, ripe brie or camembert, or Heidi tilsit cheese.
